GURNEY HOT WATER HEATER And Radiator.
"NOTHING CAN SURPASS IT."
The Gurney Heater, placed in my house two years ago, is a pronounced success. For its ability to maintain a comfortable temperature in moderate cold weather nothing can equal it and for keeping the house warm in extremely cold weather NOTHING CAN SURPASS IT.
The ease with which it is managed is a surprise to us, and is a great economy in coal. Yours truly,

FROM PORTLAND

A Desperate Burglar Captured.

PORTLAND, July 19. Edward C. Smith, colored, a desperate burglar who escaped from the police station in Boston June 24th, was captured here to-day by the Portland police. He was arrested by Officers Eldredge and Cogan. He was taken to Boston on the morning train.

SCHOONER LAUNCHED

At Rogers' Yard in Bath.

BATH, July 19. The three masted schooner Jesse C. Woodhull of New York was launched this afternoon from Wm. Rogers' yard. Her dimensions are: Length 158; depth, 13 ft. 8 in.; breadth, 35 ft. 3 in.; gross tonnage, 602.83. She is commanded by Capt. J. C. Townsend of Brooklyn, who is the principal owner. She will be ready for sea next week.

FROM LEWISTON.

Mail Clerk Arrested

LEWISTON, July 19. Lem D. Verrill, seventeen years old, a clerk in the Auburn post-office and detailed to make up the outgoing mails was arrested Friday night by order of Post Office Inspector White for theft of money from letters. Many complaints had directed attention to Verrill and two decoy letters in Friday night's mail were the basis of his arrest. Verrill acknowledged the theft. He was taken to Portland for trial.

A BLOODY FEUD.

Two Kentucky County Factions Have a Shoot.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., July 19. Another outbreak of the Smith-Messer feud is reported to-day from Knox county. A battle occurred Thursday evening at Hubbard's Mill, one of the most lawless sections in the State. There was a political gathering there, candidates for the various county offices being advertised as speakers. Both the Smith and Messer factions were on hand. It is not known how the trouble began, but about 4 o'clock the shooting began and when the smoke cleared away four men were found dead while the rest had scattered and disappeared. Eighteen men were arrayed on one side and about twenty-five on the other. Those killed were two of the Mills boys, belonging to the Messer faction, and Bob Burchett and John Howard, of the Smith crowd. More trouble is expected.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS

Decide on Admission of Members.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., July 19. The Supreme Lodge, Knights of Pythias, concluded its session yesterday. The long talked of liquor question was settled in favor of the local option men, the Supreme Lodge deciding that the various grand lodges were to judge whether saloon-keepers should be admitted to membership in the lodges subordinate to them.

SUDDEN DEATH

Of Astronomer Peters.

UTICA, N. Y. July 19. Dr. Christian Henry F. Peters, the astronomer, was found dead in his bed at Clinton this morning. He was in his usual health yesterday and the night being clear and fine he had his astronomical apparatus arranged for the purpose of taking observations through the night.

AN OPIUM DEN

Woman Inmate Offers a Big Bribe.

CHICAGO, July 19. A woman found in an opium den last night offered the officers diamonds worth $2,000 if they would release her. The woman was found with a man smoking in a small, richly furnished apartment in a laundry. The woman almost fainted when discovered. She was richly dressed, young and pretty. Costly diamonds sparkled in her ear, on her fingers and around her neck. She took the jewels off and implored the officers to take them and release her. The man and woman were taken to the station and booked under assumed names. The keeper of the place was arrested and the paraphernalia seized.

LABOR TROUBLES.

Five Hundred Men Idle.

PITTSBURG, July 19. The puddlers at the American Iron Works of Jones & Laughlin struck against a provision in the scales agreement, known as the three day rule, and that department of the great plant is now idle. The provision was adopted by a conference committee. It is probable the amalgamated association will not legalize the strike. Five hundred men are idle.

ALABAMA

A Mayor Shot Dead.

TUSCUMBIA, July 19. Mayor John Steele was shot dead yesterday by John W. Goodwin. Goodwin was seriously wounded. Mr. Abernathy tried to separate the two men and had his left arm badly shattered by a bullet. The affair was caused by a family difficulty between W. H. Chillen and Judge Steele, father of Mayor Steele. More trouble is apprehended.

GEN. GRANT'S STATUE.

The Casting a Failure.

CINCINNATI, July 19. The casting of the bronze equestrian statue of General Grant, designed for Lincoln Park, Chicago, is a failure. This will cause a delay of three months or more.

NEW YORK.

Chinaman Sentenced.

NEW YORK, July 19. John Wah Lee Mon, who abducted 14-years old Lizzie Scott from Providence, was convicted in general sessions yesterday and sent to State prison for two years and two months.

MISSISSIPPI.

DESPERATE ATTACK.

Trainmen Pluckily Resist Desperadoes—Train Wrecked by Collision.

VAN WERT, Iowa, July 19. Three men boarded a train last night on the Cincinnati, Jackson & Michigan railroad at Enterprise and attacked the engineer and fireman with hammers and coupling pins knocking both senseless. They did not stop the train owing to the plucky fight of the trainmen and jumped off before reaching Van Wert. The train, which should have stopped at Van Wert, rushed through the yard at the rate of twenty-five miles an hour, and collided with a switch engine. The engineer was found dead in the wreck and as the fireman is still unconscious, it cannot be learned whether the engineer was killed by the robbers or in the collision. No one else was hurt.

CONNECTICUT.

Mysterious Stabbing Affray

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., July 19. Early this morning John Barry of this city, aged 24, was walking along Water street with two companions, when it is claimed a man stepped out from the shadow of a building with a huge knife in his hand, and drove it twice into the breast of Barry, and then made his escape through an alley. At first Barry or his companions refused to say anything about the matter but this morning said Henry Gumfret, an employe on one of the schooners in the dock, was his assailant. He was arrested but later was discharged as he could in no way be connected with the affair. It is not known whether Barry's wounds will prove fatal or not.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.

Population of Concord.

CONCORD, N. H., July 19. The population of Concord, according to the final figures sent to Washington, is 17,018, over a thousand more than the supervisors' estimate.

Train Wrecked.

WARREN, N. H., July 19. No. 4 freight, consisting of six cars loaded with lumber, was thrown from the track and completely wrecked. Brakeman Hutchins was thrown thirty feet under a car and lumber, but escaped unhurt.

Forest Fires.

NEW IPSWICH, N. H., July 19. An hundred acres of brush woodland on Bush Hill, East Rindge, N. H., have been burned over near the Winchendon line. A large force is now working to prevent the extension of the fire.

ILLINOIS.

The World's Fair

CHICAGO, July 19. Steps are being taken to secure the immediate selection of a director general of the world's fair. A director said yesterday that General Goshorn had been practically decided upon for director general.

WISCONSIN.

Dishonest Mayor

SHEBOYGAN, Wis., July 19. The city council has removed Mayor Saemann from office and impeachment proceedings will be begun. It has been proven that the mayor had a personal interest in the purchase in certain land for city purposes.

TEXAS.

Mexican Revolutionists.

BROWNSVILLE, Texas, July 19. Official advices received here state that a body of so called revolutionists, supposed to be under command of Gen. Ignacio Martinez and Catarino Garixa, have been collected at Pena, a station on the Texas & Mexican railroad, for the purpose of invading Mexico. Gov. Ross has been wired and the Mexicans are on the qui vive to catch them if they cross the river.

A PACKAGE MISSING.

The Thief and $3,000 have the Start.

IRONWOOD, Mich., July 19. It has just been learned here that an express package containing $3,000, sent by a Milwaukee bank to the Bank of Rhinelander, of Rhinelander, Wis., by the United States Express Co., was stolen. The money has been traced to Monico Junction, where it was transferred to a brakeman named Gray to take to its destination. The robber has had nearly a week start after the package was missed.

FOREIGN NEWS.

Lydia Becker Dead.

LONDON, July 19. Lydia Becker, leader of the woman suffrage movement, died today at Geneva of diphtheria.

The McKinley Bill.

PARIS, July 19. M. Ribot, Minister of Foreign Affairs, has requested M. Dupuy to postpone his interpellation in regard to negotiations with the powers relative to the McKinley bill until a vote shall be taken upon a direct taxation bill.

An Important Event.

ATHENS, July 19. The Duchess of Sparta, wife of the crown prince of Greece and sister of Mildron, has given birth to a son.

Steamer Damaged.

LONDON, July 19. The steamer Furnessia before reported returning disabled anchored off Malin today. The propeller length of her shaft was broken and her stern tube twisted.

HOW HER HUBBY PUT IT.

"I am willing to work and work hard for my husband and children, but oh! I do so hate needless work which does not show the time and strength put into it. How I have washed and wrung out, and then washed again, all because the soap was one of those rosin affairs and did not cleanse. Now I use Brussels soap, and as hubby would put it, I save a hundred per cent. in time and labor." Thus said Mrs. B, a firm friend of Brussels soap.

BREWER LOCALS.

Miss Lettie Doak, of South Brewer, returned Saturday from a visit with friends in Exeter and vicinity.

The schooner Williamine is being loaded at E. and I. K. Stetson's ice houses.

Mr. E. O. Burr, clerk for Rice & Miller, leaves this week for Castine, to spend his vacation.

The C. A. Simmons is loading ice at F. W. Ayer & Co.'s new houses near the marine railway.

Mr Andreas de Haseth has been engaged by Nickerson & Barstow as clerk in the place vacated by Mr. Herbert Hopkins.

The tug-boat Robert E. Kirkland is hauled out on the marine railway for a few days while repairs are being made to the propeller.

Mr. Willis I. Bunker and his friend, Mr. W. P. Hart, of Boston, left on the boat, Saturday, for Boston, where Mr. Bunker will spend the remainder of his vacation.

Mr. Charles Kennedy, who is bookkeeper for D. Bugbee & Co., left this morning for a trip to New York. He will only be gone a few days.

The Methodist Sunday School has decided to make its annual excursion down river on next Friday, the 25th, on the Castine. It has not yet been decided as to the destination.

Mr. Walter E. Russ and family and Mr. George P. Aiken and family went to Islesboro, Saturday afternoon, by the steamer Castine to spend Sunday. They will return this morning.

Capt. Frank G. Arey expects to leave this morning for a trip to Montreal. He will be gone several days and will go from here to Portland and over the new extension and Canadian Pacific railway to his destination. It will be a very interesting trip.

Mr A. H. Gould, who is to furnish the pressed brick for the new Y. M. C. A. building, started the fires in his first kiln for the season last week. About half of the brick to be used in the building is in this kiln.

Capt. Charles F. Trask is to sail at once for this port from Boston, in the schooner Isaiah K. Stetson, which will make the trip in ballast. Mrs. Trask left for Boston the latter part of last week to join her husband and make the trip home with him.

The B. H. S. Alumni had a most enjoyable time on their excursion, and not the least pleasant part of their trip was that from Bucksport to this city, some twenty of the young men who could not leave for the whole day, going to Bucksport and joining them at that place in the evening. They kept the party in a constant state of good nature from the time they joined them until the excursion ended and made the trip up the river a lively one.

A pleasant party left Saturday on the steamer Welcome, commanded by Capt. Ben Arey, of this city, who runs the boat between this port and Fort Point. In addition to his regular passengers there were on board Mr. George Wardwell and wife and Dr J. J. Page, of Bucksport, and Mr. H. B. Homer and wife, of Bangor. After leaving his passengers for Fort Point, Capt. Arey was to continue to Isle au Haut with the above party, who are to spend a week at the island and the Welcome will go down again next Saturday to bring them back. Another party is arranged which will go down with him on that trip and it, too, intends to make a week of it.

Editorial Excursion Notes.

MACHIAS AND ITS ENVIRONS.

[Kennebec Journal.]

Machias, the objective point of the late editorial excursion, is the shire town of Washington County, and is situated midway of the south shore of the county on the Machias river. It was incorporated in 1784 and at that time embraced the present towns of East Machias, Machiasport, Whitneyville and Marshfield. It was the first town incorporated between the Penobscot and the St Croix. Its water power is excellent, the entire fall of the Machias river at the village being thirty-five feet, and the power equal to 937 horse-power. Saw-mills were built here as early as 1765, and from that time to the present Machias has been a great lumber manufacturing center. The river is fed by a system of ponds and lakes that extend over a large tract of country well covered with pine, spruce and hemlock lumber, of which only the larger growth has yet been cut, and that only partially.

The village of Machias is pleasantly situated on both sides of the river, with ample room to spread out in any direction, and it has some very fine streets and elegant residences, besides several business blocks that would do credit to larger places. The county buildings are of brick, and have a solid, substantial look outside, while the court house is as fine a structure inside as any court house in the State. It is made entirely fire proof in the lower story, is heated by steam and lighted by electricity, and contains a large cistern with a capacity of nine thousand gallons. From this cistern water is pumped to a tank in the upper story. The entire tower floor is laid in beautiful English tile, the pattern of every room being different, and the bewildered observer will invariably think each room he visits the most tasty and beautiful till he comes to the next. The fire places are also of different patterns, and with the cheerful finish of the doors, walls and ceiling, and the comfortable furnishings, the county officials whose offices are on this floor may be considered as fortunate in their surroundings. If there is a pleasanter court room in the State of Maine, or one better appointed in all its details, it has not been our fortune to see it.

The custom house and post-office is a fine building of brick and granite, and cost $90,000. The Vose Block built last year, cost about $13,000, aside from the land, and is perhaps the finest business block in the village. The basement and lower story are occupied by business firms. The G. A. R. Post occupy one-half of the second story, and have a comfortable post room, with convenient ante-rooms. The third story is occupied entirely by the Masonic fraternity who have in Machias three different bodies, namely: Harwood Lodge of about one hundred and fifty members, Washington Chapter and St. Elmo Commandery with fifty-four members. There is a [illegible] in the State. It is [illegible] feet by 51 [illegible], twenty feet high. The walls and arched ceiling are frescoed in [illegible] colors with the [illegible] placed at proper intervals. The [illegible] is stained [illegible] churches, and a public library of more than two thousand volumes. Its lumber mills are among the largest and best in the State, and turn out an immense quantity of manufactured lumber, while as a ship-building port it has always held a leading place among Maine towns. There are many elegant private residences in the place, and quite a number of the citizens have summer residences at Englishman's river in Jonesboro, a section of our eastern coast that is fast becoming a favorite summer resort.

The people of Machias are most hospitable and cordial, fully alive to the beauty and business interests of their town, and thoroughly appreciating the desirability of regular and constant communication with other parts of the State.

THE SHORE LINE AND ITS BUSINESS

There are thirty-five business houses in Machias, and business men say that 10,000 tons of merchandise now comes to Machias, yearly, aside from coal and salt, one-half of which would be brought by car if there were a railroad, and, hence we can form some idea of the business that Machias could give a railroad at once, to say nothing of the development of industries or the shipment of lumber by rail. The fact is Washington County is not understood. There is business enough to support a railroad from the outset, and the development of the wonderful resources of this section would inevitably follow, and the utilization of the magnificent series of water powers following each other at almost regular intervals through this grand county. Probably no other section of country in the United States, with an equal number of inhabitants and such a succession of thriving villages, is without railroad facilities, and we feel sure that the Shore Line Railroad will be built at no distant day. With its building will come a new boom for Maine, as a summer residence State, with large increase of its fisheries output. The road would start with a solid resident population of 60,000 directly tributary to it.

The Machias and East Machias rivers afford an annual lumber cut of thirty millions, equal to half the whole Aroostook output that goes down the St John river, and which experience has demonstrated will largely go by rail, even from those mills, so conveniently located for water transportation that lumber can be loaded on shipboard directly from them. The new business that will spring up cannot fail to be large, a part of which is already in process of organization. The locations for summer residences are so beautiful—certainly unsurpassed if equaled anywhere—are so numerous and at prices so moderate that their selection and improvement are quite sure to follow the opening of the railroad with increased influx of tourists from the south and west. This business of summer travel is yet in its infancy. Brother Adams of the Argus states it as it is when he says that the great tide of summer travel is promoted by natural causes that will never cease to operate so long as present climatic influences exist.

Old Point Comfort, Cape May, Atlantic City, Long Branch, Saratoga, etc., have enjoyed great popularity for certain seasons of the year, but all of them are subject to periods of torrid heat for a week or ten days at a time—a drawback that is well-nigh intolerable, and will certainly be avoided when people learn that it is so easy to reach a resort where cool nights are the rule and day heat seldom goes above seventy degrees, as is the case along the coast of Eastern Maine. That simple fact is the foundation of the future growth and prosperity of this part of our State. Men will not make an abiding place for the warm season where the heat is sure to be a very considerable discomfort, when a day further on it will be wholly avoided without losing one jot or tittle of other attractions, but rather with an increase of them.

STATE NEWS.

Androscoggin.

An Auburn street laborer, Ralph Woodman, recently rescued a three-year-old child from in front of a railroad train, and had a narrow escape himself, the cow catcher of the locomotive knocking off his hat and carrying it under the wheels.

Aroostook.

Edward Coffin, of Mapleton, is a very unfortunate man. On Thursday of last week, his dwelling house was injured by fire. He went to Presque Isle for lumber to repair the damage. On arriving he found it necessary to back his wagon under the mill to get his load of lumber. He remained on the seat of his wagon and while getting the vehicle in proper position, received a violent blow on his back by coming in contact with a beam.

There was shipped from Houlton station over the New Brunswick Railway, for the week ending July 12, the following produce: Lumber, 27 cars; shingles, 4; laths, 3; miscellaneous, 11, hay 2; extract hemlock bark, 2; leather, 2; horses, 1. Total, 52 cars.

John B. Madigan, Esq., of Houlton, has recently purchased the lot opposite to C. H. Pierce's residence on Main street, and also some addition to it from Mrs. A. E. Powers. On the lot stood an ancient landmark, the old dwelling house built by Capt. Joseph Whitaker over fifty years ago.

The Caribou Republican says: Mrs Joseph Gelbeart, and three boys attempted to interfere with Highway Surveyor Todd and his party who were at work on the river road. The road runs along the river bank in front of Gelbeart's property. When the party arrived they found a fence had been erected over the proposed road, and the old lady and her boys, with clubs, keeping guard. Surveyor Todd attempted to remove the fence but the "guard" attacked him with clubs until he was forced to retreat. He came to Caribou, secured a warrant and Constable York to serve it. Mr. York then proceeded to interview the opposing force. He was greeted by blows from clubs in the hands of the angry woman and her "kids." He then took the stick away from the old lady, and her assistants were soon compelled to retreat. He decided not to arrest them and came back to town. Soon after this lively picnic Deputy Marshall Gary and L. N. Beroe went to the scene of the fracas. The fighting family realized that clubs would avail but little against Levi's persuasive manner, but insisted upon clinging to the rails of the fence, which were taken down with scant ceremony, leaving the different members of the family scattered about in different directions.

Franklin.

The obituary of a Kingfield man, in an exchange, consists of but one sentence. "He played the fife every 4th of July for 73 years."

Hancock.

The Bar Harbor Record's Rambler thinks that if Bar Harbor people really desired an early season they would hurry and get their spring cleaning done and not have sidewalks torn up, roads in process of repair and hotels not yet in summer order on the fifteenth of July.

Kennebec.

Wednesday night, Mrs. Ascenfield, White-man, a well-to-do farmer some two [illegible] cates, in close proximity to Mr. Whitman's head. Mr. Whitman's first thought was his double barrel gun, which he always kept loaded for hawks and other farm depredators, and that was in another room, and when he came out three men were trying to effect an entrance to his house through the front door. Mr. Whitman fired one barrel when the scamps turned and ran. Mr. Whitman opened his door and saw three men running towards his barnyard when he fired the second barrel, with what effect upon the miscreants is not known, but undoubtedly some of the three received a good dose of shot.

Brownville people feel cheerful over the way their slate quarries are panning out. A Rockland man is exhibiting a sample taken from a Brownville quarry which, as he holds it in his hand, appears to be one piece of handsome slate, 12 by 16 inches and one-eighth inch thick, but a closer investigation shows that it is really three pieces of exactly equal thickness. Slate that can be split so thin as that is worth something.

W. P. Oakes, Esq., C. E., has recently been tracing the slate vein east from North Monson. He found no difficulty in following the trend, by the out-croppings to Barron Mountain and Township No. 7, east of Elliottsville. There is evidently crude slate enough in Piscataquis county to supply the world's market for a thousand years. This boundless source of wealth waits the development, which capital and labor alone can promote.

Norcross Brothers, of Worcester, Mass., who are opening a slate quarry at North Monson, are said to be negotiating for the purchase of the old Crocker quarry at Brownville with a view to operating it. Nothing has been done there for fifteen years.

Washington.

The varied and romantic career of the late Greenfield Pote, a native of Maine, and the Free Mason who gave the first dollar toward the payment of the debt of the Grand Lodge of New York, is the subject of a sketch in the July number of the Masonic Token. Mr. Pote was born in Eastport, in 1792. His father, a Presbyterian minister, dying while Greenfield was yet a child, he was taken in charge by his grandfather, a Southern planter, and slave owner. This grandfather died a few years later, leaving Greenfield his principal heir, but the boy's uncle, a Portland man, being appointed the boy's guardian and the administrator of the estate, succeeded in defrauding the boy of most of his inheritance. The youth spent much time with a tribe of Indians, with whom he was a favorite, and went to sea at an early age, becoming commander of a vessel and rendering valuable service during the last war with Great Britain, being at one time dangerously wounded and taken prisoner. He was shipwrecked several times, once on the coast of Maine. A collegiate education having been provided for him by his grandfather, he gave up the sea and went to college, but did not finish his course. He met a beautiful young girl, the daughter of one of the judges of Massachusetts, the consequence was an elopement, a reconciliation and then his starting in business in the city of Boston. His wife died young, and after her death he went to New York, later retiring to New Rochelle, where he died in 1878 at the age of eighty-six years.

The troubles of the milkmen in Biddeford are numerous and varied. One of them, a Mr Sands, fell asleep on his wagon at Old Orchard, this week, and as a result dropped out of his wagon, which passed over his legs, fortunately not breaking them.

A Saco man has in his family a step-daughter about seven years old, whose lot cannot be a very happy one. One afternoon lately the man and his wife locked up the house leaving the girl outside, and went visiting. They did not come back that night and the girl slept on the stone doorstep, getting what she could to eat the next day, as her mother and step-father still remained away. That evening she had again camped upon the doorstep when a neighbor saw her and learned why she had no better bed. He took her to his home and bright and early the next morning started out with a club to try to beat a little humanity into the step-father, providing he had returned. He found him, and though he did not use the club, he gave him emphatic warning that if he ever heard of his abusing or neglecting the girl again he would use it. This is one of the cases where the American Peace Association would prescribe war, we think.

The Archaeological Society of Athens announces a very important discovery in a tomb near Sparta, supposed to belong to the pre-historic city of Pharis. The tomb is believed to date back to the eighth or the tenth century before Christ. The following "true" story is told by a New Hampshire contemporary. While Conductor Gilman's train was between Kennebunk and Wells, Friday afternoon, the engineer saw a man on the track waving his hands. Thinking something was wrong, the train was stopped, and without a word the stranger coolly boarded the smoking car. The brakeman rushed through to see what the trouble was and asked him what he had stopped the train for. "Wal," said the fellow, who looked as though he had never been out of the bushes before, "I just waved my hand, 'cos I wanted to get on the keers. I'm goin' ter Wells, and I never bin on the keers before." This was said in such an innocent way as to disarm all anger and suspicion of malice, and so nothing was left to do but to receive his fare, he being given the usual coupon worth ten cents. When the train reached Wells he got off amid the rousing cheers of the passengers in his honor.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, July 19. [illegible]

[illegible]

Mr. Allison [illegible] the matter of the appointment of managers was found in the bill. The Committee on Appropriations (he said) had always in [illegible] matters consulted the Committee on Military Affairs, which was primarily responsible for soldiers' homes. Mr. Hawley, the chairman of the committee, had handed him (as he could not be present to-day) an amendment proposing the name of Lewis B. Gunckel of Ohio, in place of Gen. Harris, who had recently died.

Mr. Sherman spoke in complimentary terms of Mr. Gunckel, and also suggested the name of [illegible] in place of [illegible], who had been appointed Governor of Oklahoma, and might, therefore, be ineligible for manager.

Mr. Cockrell mentioned the fact that the Committee on Military Affairs had recommended striking out the name of Mr. [illegible] of Maine, and inserting that of Mr. [illegible], the present member of the board.

Mr. Plumb inquired as to the reason.

Mr. Cockrell replied that it was because the committee believed it to be for the best interests of the National Home and because it was the desire of the Senator from Maine.

Mr. Frye stated that it was [illegible]

After further discussion the amendment was agreed to, [illegible]

The next amendment that provoked discussion was an appropriation of [illegible] for aid to the Industrial Christian Home [illegible] in Utah territory.

Mr. Cockrell inquired as to the total number of inmates that have been sheltered at the home (which was established for the protection of Mormon women desiring to escape from polygamy) and gave as the result of his information that it had never had in all more than 20 inmates, including children.

Mr. Edmunds stated the purpose of Congress in aiding the work of Christian women in Utah to save Mormon women from the slavery of polygamy. He admitted that not many Mormon women took advantage of it, but said the building was an open invitation to them, and that he should be glad to have the people of the United States help the home for that reason alone.

Mr. Cockrell stated it as his belief that there were no persons at the home except those who were receiving salaries from the United States.

SEVERELY INJURED.

Mr. George W. Harriman and His Son Fred Harriman Thrown from a Carriage.

About noon, Saturday, as Mr. George W. Harriman and his son, Mr. Fred Harriman, were driving up Main street, when near the Bangor Exchange the horse became frightened at a passing street car and in jumping suddenly to one side the wheels of the carriage came in contact with the curb stone. The carriage was overturned and the occupants thrown out. Mr. Harriman fell head downward and would have struck upon his head had he not thrown up his arm just in time. As it was he struck heavily upon his arm. Mr. Fred Harriman was dragged a short distance when the horse started to run, after the tip over. They went into Mr. J. A. Crowell's store where a physician attended them. It was found that Mr. Harriman's arm was broken in two places near the elbow and that he had received some severe bruises. Mr. Fred Harriman's injuries consisted of a sprained leg and some painful bruises.

They were driven to their home where their injuries were attended to. [illegible]

LOST HIS [illegible]. Yesterday morning as City Marshal Whitney and Officer Gilman were riding down the Hampden road they heard the distant tones of a hand organ. They lost no time in approaching the grinder and asking him what he was doing. "Me no speak English" was the reply they got. With profuse [illegible] and apology he shouldered his [illegible] music and [illegible] like the Arab. His music was not again heard during the day.

WILL GO TO BOSTON. The members of Daniel Chaplin Camp, Sons of Veterans, are expecting a very pleasant time on the trip to Boston next month on the occasion of the National G. A. R. encampment, to attend which they have received an invitation. A large number intends to go and the camp expects to make a most creditable appearance, as the young men are well drilled and will wear their new uniforms, which have recently been made for them. The proceeds of the entertainment given last week will be used either for the expenses of the trip or for the uniforms. The camps thus far heard from which intend to go to the encampment are Shepley Camp, of Portland, and Daniel Chaplin Camp, of this city. There will be a large number of Sons of Veterans there from all over the country and the occasion will be a most interesting and patriotic one.

THE DRIVES. The high pitch of water lately in the up river waters has been very favorable for the drives, and winds also have been in such a quarter that they have not materially retarded the progress of the drives. The East and West Branch logs are to come along together, and they are now nearly ready to join forces. The latest from the West Branch was to the effect that the logs would reach Ledge Falls Saturday and would probably reach the main river to-day. While the first part of the trip of the logs was rather slow, the last part has been somewhat of an improvement. Owing to unfavorable winds and other circumstances, the drives will arrive at their destination but very little earlier than last year. It will now be but a few days before the logs reach [illegible]

THE [illegible]

Earnest Addresses by Miss Anna M. Edwards, of Cleveland, Ohio.

Miss Anna M. Edwards, of Cleveland, Ohio, the well known and enthusiastic temperance worker, spoke in this city yesterday forenoon and evening. In the forenoon she preached at the [illegible] street Free Baptist church to a large congregation, the members of which were much interested by what was said. Miss Edwards spoke upon the temperance question, taking the resolutions of the Gospel as the groundwork of her remarks, which were of a most profitable and interesting character.

In the evening Miss Edwards addressed a large audience at the vestry of the First Congregational church, giving a practical talk upon the temperance movement.

In beginning her address she referred to the part that women are taking in the temperance cause, they who are most deeply affected by the curse of drink. [illegible] the lives of their husbands and sons are wrecked by the fatal habit of intemperance. She earnestly referred to the necessity of the education of the [illegible] that the evils of strong drink, its [illegible] effects, and the good of [illegible], might be fully realized by [illegible], many of whom, if not drunkards themselves, are thoughtless and careless as to the matter of intemperance and the manner of stopping it.

Miss Edwards said that she believed in the law which prohibits the sale of liquor, or anything which fills our prisons with murderers and thieves, our alms houses with paupers, and our insane asylums with demented patients. Is there no such thing as protection for our homes and general welfare, or must we be always at the mercy of the rum fiends? It cannot be that the men will give their votes to perpetuate the traffic. If the sale cannot be stopped then civil government is a failure.

The people of Maine established prohibition by a vote of 40,000 majority, and has it now come to the pass that after such an expression, it shall be said that they cannot enforce their own will and must resort to the license system? Shall the law breakers dictate to the law abiding people? It is now proposed to continue the liquor traffic under the sanction of the law. The evasion of the license law, where it is in force, is very marked, as it fails to enforce respect from the rum sellers. In the large cities are many saloons where, [illegible], is the violation of the license law which prevails there, their owners paying nothing for the privilege. [illegible]

CHAPTER XV.

A [illegible] [illegible] SWOOPS DOWN UPON THE TREASURE.

While he was still hesitating after the [illegible] of this [illegible] experience, uncertain whether the [illegible] not too great, a [illegible] at a distance, and Trinidad Jose came running to them for protection. His offense in naming his dog had been discovered by the Jefe Politico, or at least by some of his men. A [illegible] of the newly arrived [illegible] had met him on the road and resented the insult to their chief. They had set upon him violently, but he had been able to give them the slip through his acquaintance with a [illegible] the hills.

"Even if I get off now I shall never dare show myself outside the [illegible] again," he said.

"Then join us to-night at my [illegible] at Casa Vieja," Walter proposed to him. "I will give you some work to do up there that will be better, at any rate, than hiding here. Meanwhile, [illegible] yourself away, and I will deal with these [illegible]."
